

Conference: "7th annual Extended Semantic Web Conference"

Kalamaki, Crete

30/05/2010 – 03/06/2010

As yet another affirmation of IMC Technologies technical excellence and commitment to supporting innovation and applied research, we are happy to announce our presence in the coming Extended Semantic Web Conference to be held in Crete, from the 30th of May till the 3rd of June 2010.

ESWC (former European Semantic Web Conference) is one of the central annual events for research and applications of Semantic Web Technologies and is very well regarded and visible world-wide for its high-quality program and its impact on developments in the field. It has grown into an event with well over 350 participants each year from university, industry and government.

We will present our latest publication titled 'Facilitating Dialogue - Using Semantic Web Technology for eParticipation' at the In Use track. The publication describes the innovative use of Semantic Web technology that powers the latest version of our eParticipation platform, eDialogos, as deployed in the Prefecture of Samos.

In addition to presenting our work, we shall also sponsor the event, proving in practice our support for and commitment to innovation, looking forward to making new research and business contacts and creating opportunities for collaboration. So, see you in Crete!
